JFK, Advisers Discuss Stand On Test Ban

Trimming Down of Policing Demand To Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy calls in his top advisers on atomic weapons policy today to consider trimming down U.S. proposals for policing a nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

Scheduled to attend the mid-morning White House meeting were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, William C. Foster, chief of the disarmament agency, and Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

In preparation for today's session with Kennedy, the policy advisers agreed Thursday that new scientific developments now justify a reduction in the amount of international inspection necessary inside the Soviet Union to safeguard a test ban.

It was also reported that the President's advisers agreed that inspection arrangements at this stage should include both the guaranteed right of on-site inspections in various parts of the Soviet Union where secret atomic tests might be held and internationally manned control posts on Soviet territory.

The administration's obvious hope—however slender it may be—is that the new U.S. safeguard proposals, to be made shortly at the disarmament conference at Geneva, will interest the Soviet government in entering into serious negotiations once again for a ban on the testing of nuclear weapons.

But, since such a development is regarded as highly unlikely at the present stage of the arms race, the alternative aim is to demonstrate this country's interest in obtaining a test ban, even at the cost of what would appear to be new concessions to Soviet opposition to inspection.

Wide differences of opinion within the administration were re-

Next Visit of Bloodmobile Set Aug. 15

Plans are being formulated for the Aug. 15 visit of the Cleveland Regional Bloodmobile to Salem.

The unit will be stationed at St. Paul's School between the hours of 12 and 6 p.m. The goal is 125 pints.

L. J. Raymond, chairman of the north Columbiana County blood program, urges co-workers to make every effort to recruit donors for this visit, pointing out that summer quotas are often difficult to reach.

Letters have been mailed by the chairman to the ministers of Salem asking for pulpit and bulletin support of the blood program. Miss Carmen McNicol is in charge of church recruitment, Michael Schuller is general industrial recruitment chairman, and Mrs. Albert Sanders and Mrs. Oliver Davis are co-chairmen of residential recruitment.

The hostess committee of the women of St. Paul's Church will provide the food and manage the canteen. Miss McNicol will complete the arrangements for the staff dinner and canteen.

It was stressed by the chairman that the blood needs of all residents of the North Columbiana County Chapter are met without charge so long as the quotas are reached.

Only those donors who are certain they can keep their appointments are asked to register. Appointments can be made by calling the Red Cross office.

Strike Hinted By Railroaders

Plan To Eliminate Jobs Stirs Dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—A strike has been threatened by the 200,000 union men who man the nation's trains in an attempt to keep railroads from revamping work rules which would eliminate thousands of jobs.

In a suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court, the unions stated their intent to strike unless the railroads drop plans to enforce the work changes Aug. 17.

The suit, filed by unions of engineers, trainmen, conductors, brakemen, firemen and switchmen, requests the court to declare the carriers' proposed changes a violation of the Railway Labor Act.

The suit also applied for a permanent injunction to keep the managements from adopting new rules, recommended in February by a presidential commission.

The work rules changes, the railroads contend, are aimed at eliminating what they call "featherbedding"—keeping on the payroll personnel whose jobs are unnecessary. The unions say the jobs are needed for safe and efficient operation.

Management estimated that "featherbedding" cost the carriers $500 million a year.

Woman Hurt As Truck Hits Car

Betty Ann Stoffer, 34, of RD 1, Leetonia, was treated and released at Salem City Hospital after she drove her car into the path of a truck on E. State St. at Ohio Ave. at 5:55 a.m. today.

The truck, owned by the Wolf Explosive & Supply Co. of Enon Valley, Pa., was loaded with a material used in making fertilizer. There was little danger of an explosion, police said.

The truck driver, George W. Martin, 39, of RD 1, Enon Valley, said the Leetonia woman pulled out of a service station directly into the path of his tractor-trailer which was going west on State St.

The truck smashed broadside into the car, shoving it 54 feet down the street from the point of impact, police said. The left side of the car was demolished.

Will Settle for Record 7.47 Million

GE Agrees To Pay Price-Fix Damages

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Electric Co. has agreed to pay a record $7.47 million to settle damage suits that followed conviction of the company in a price-fixing case, the Justice Department announced today.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the settlement includes payment of $6.47 million to the Tennessee Valley Authority in damages for inflated prices paid to GE as a result of the price-fixing conspiracy.

Another million will go to the government for purchases from General Electric by other government agencies, Kennedy said.

Justice Department officials said the previous record settlement in a case of this type was $44,000 from the Ward Baking Co. last May.

General Electric was one of 19 defendants in 11 civil damage suits filed by the government since March 1961. Attempts are under way to negotiate settlements with other defendants, Kennedy said.

In New York, chairman Ralph J. Cordner of GE termed the settlement reasonable and fair.

"Now that these landmark cases are settled, GE hopes that in all other cases voluntary settlements can be negotiated to insure equity to all parties involved and avoid years of costly contentions litigation," he said.

If settlements can be achieved with all GE customers for these products on the basis used by the company in determining its offer to the government and TVA, the company's total price adjustment would be about $45 to $50 million over the next few years, Cordner estimated.

He said the company would start negotiations as soon as possible with investor-owned municipal and other electrical utility customers—both those who have filed damage suits and those which have not.

The civil cases were an outgrowth of criminal price-fixing.

Grave May Hold Estes Fortune, Orr Testifies

Claims $3½ Million Of Billie's Funds Have Disappeared

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Speculation that Billie Sol Estes hid a fortune in a pauper's grave was given in testimony at a court of inquiry Thursday.

One of three men indicted with Estes on fraud and theft charges involving millions of dollars volunteered the buried treasure suggestion at a hearing which a New York chemical firm, facing a civil antitrust suit, tried to block.

Harold E. Orr, 31, president of Superior Manufacturing Co., said about $3½ million received by enterprises of Estes, the bankrupt West Texas financier, has disappeared.

Discussing a Pecos, Tex., mortuary owned by Estes, Orr testified he knew of only one funeral handled by it during the period the money vanished—a charity case.

"What was the place used for?" Dist. Atty. Frank Baughman asked.

"It is just my personal assumption," Orr said, "but I think it was so he could store all that loot in some poor old boy's grave."

Orr also testified:

1. Worthless notes and sales contract through which Superior Manufacturing obtained the money funneled $18 million to Estes. Coleman T. McSpadden, 45, of Lubbock, majority stockholder in the firm, got $2 million in the same manner.

2. Representatives of several finance firms were aware that thousands of fertilizer tanks on which they loaned the money didn't exist.

3. Estes conferred on numerous occasions with representatives of Commercial Solvents Corp., New York supplier of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer which Estes distributed at drastically cut prices in an effort to corner the West Texas market.

4. More than one threat has been made on Orr's life since he gave FBI agents information about Estes' operations in March. He gave no details.

5. Fictitious collateral supported the notes through which Orr, McSpadden and three other men raised $380,000 to buy Superior Manufacturing Co. on April 27, 1960—the date on which other dealings in worthless securities started. Robert E. Clements of Amarillo, who sold the tank-building firm, was aware of some of these dealings.

Orr said he and Ruel W. Alexander, 36, of Amarillo, shared an $82,000 interest in Superior Manufacturing, borrowing $80,000 from Estes and putting up $2,000 out of Orr's personal savings. He said McSpadden's share was $202,000.

House Group Refuses Request

Committee Kills Fallout Shelter Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential request for $568,755,000 to start an extensive fallout shelter construction program drew a "no" today from the House Appropriations Committee.

In a report accompanying an $11,501,141,000 appropriation bill the committee said it believes that before the nation embarks on a program that would cost billions of dollars more study and research should be applied to the vast and complex problems involved.

It approved $10 million for further civil defense research by the Defense Department.

President Kennedy had requested $460 million for grants to cover part of the cost of shelters in non-profit institutions, $35 million for shelters in federal buildings, $56 million for federal buildings $56 million for stocking supplies in shelters and $17,755,000 for research and development.

The committee approved $5.5 million to maintain the present stockpile of medical supplies and emergency hospitals for the Civil Defense program and $65 million to continue the present program, but denied an additional $31.25 million for new supplies.

All of its actions are subject to House approval next week.

The cut in Civil Defense items accounted for about half of the $1,058,922,500 reduction in the bill which finances 26 executive boards agencies commissions and bureau for this fiscal year.

The total went $1,993,103,500 over last year's funds in the same

Rocket Plane Tests Are Termed Success

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket plane thundered upward to 100,000 feet and began a series of descent-braking roller coaster dips with its electronic controls deliberately crippled. The purpose: To see whether man can bring a ship back from space by himself.

"I had a couple of pretty busy minutes," said the space agency pilot, Neil Armstrong, after the flight Thursday. "I was tempted a couple of times to switch the yaw damper back on but that would have defeated our purpose."

Armstrong intentionally turned off the yaw damper, a device that automatically corrects the craft's direction when it veers to left or right, as he reached the top of his 3,954-mile-an-hour climb.

Armstrong performed the descent with manual controls only. "I think we proved that a pilot can control a ship during re-entry without electronic controls if such an emergency arises," he said.

Troops Bolster Positions Near Algeria Capital

Premier Expresses Confidence Crisis Will Be Over Soon

ALGIERS (AP) — Belkacem Krim returned to Algiers today from his Berber stronghold in the Kabylie Mountains and announced he is forming a committee to defend the revolution against the power play of Ahmed Ben Bella.

Both are deputy premiers in the paralyzed provisional government of moderate Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, with Ben Bella in militant opposition to that regime and Krim in vigorous support.

"We are not thinking of civil war" Krim told new men as troops nominally loyal to Ben Khedda labored to perfect defenses on the outskirts of the capital. "We are thinking of defense and unity."

Followers of Ben Bella, a radical already claiming control of western Algeria and some points in the east, were reported preparing to try to take over Algiers and impose their authority on the newly independent nation.

Former Deputy Premier Mohammed Khider is due in Algiers today from Ben Bella's headquarters in Oran, the chief city of western Algeria, as the vanguard of the National Liberation Front's seven-man Political Bureau.

This is a Ben Bella-dominated group which plans to take control of the government. Khider said the other members will head in later.

After 48 hours of work among his Berber followers, Krim pulled up in front of the Aletti Hotel here in a black limousine. He was escorted by two bodyguards in camouflage uniforms.

Krim said he intended to discuss with Ben Khedda the formation of the defense committee. Though he offered no elaboration of the plan, the fact he would consult the premier indicated he was not planning to set up another rival regime in Algeria, already divided by tribal and personality clashes.

In any case, Krim told newsmen, Zone 3 will not let anybody penetrate its territory.

Zone 3 covers a vast mountain region east of Algiers. It is Krim's native area and is solidly opposed to Ben Bella and his followers.

Ben Khedda was almost alone in the government building in Algiers, but he appeared calm. He and his armaments minister, Abdelhafid Boussouf, expressed confidence that "everything will be arranged." Boussouf left Algiers briefly Thursday, possibly on a peacemaking mission, and on his return declared, "The crisis will soon be over."

From Ben Bella's side came what looked like a conciliatory move. State Minister Lakhdar Ben Tobbal, who had been seized in Constantine when Ben Bella forces took over that east Algerian city Wednesday was released and returned to Algiers.

But two of Ben Khedda's ministers, backed by thousands of former guerrillas in the Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers, continued to call for widespread resistance to Ben Bella.

Deputy Premiers Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Boudiaff, who have vowed to fight Ben Bella "to the last drop of our blood," toured the Kabylie area Thursday to whip up support. They charged again that Ben Bella plans to impose a personal dictatorship on all Algeria.

In Oran, Khider described the Coup In Peru Has U.S. Over a Barrel

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is over a barrel. It reacted strongly against military seizure of power in Peru last week. This probably won't last long. It had similar reactions in other places and wound up doing business.

It didn't like the military coup which threw out the president of Korea in 1961. Before year's end President Kennedy and junta boss Gen. Chung Hee Park were

Cause of German Measles Discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Identification of the virus that causes German measles was announced Thursday by the U.S. Public Health Service, raising hopes for development of an immunization program.

The new virus was isolated by Drs. John L. Sever and Gilbert M. Schiff, scientists connected with a collaborative project of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

They tested five groups of military recruits and children infected with rubella, commonly called German measles, in different geographical areas and isolated the new virus from 82 per cent of the patients. When cultivated and administered to volunteers, the virus was found to cause rubella.

DROPS LABEL CHARGES
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Lucas County Prosecutor Harry Friberg filed a motion Thursday to dismiss a seven-count indictment of criminal libel against the Toledo Blade. He said he believed dropping the charges was in the best public interest.

Friberg had claimed in his suit that he and two of his assistants were criminally libeled by six editorials and a letter to the editor published in the Blade over a 16-month period.

reaffirming the two countries' "strong bonds of friendship."

When the military in Argentina last March disliked the elections results and threw out the president, this country hesitated about giving recognition. It waited three weeks and gave the recognition.

In other countries in Latin America—Paraguay, Raiti, Nicaragua, Guatemala—it has given recognition to dictatorship governments of one kind or another.

And, among other countries, it has diplomatic relations with two of the most persistent, contemporary dictatorships—Spain and Portugal—and has bases on their territory.

By the very nature of its policy—encouraging democracies—the United States can't afford to welcome military coups or dictatorships without some show of hesitancy.

But by the very nature of its dilemma—in trying to stop communism—it apparently feels it can't afford to shut the door on anti-Communist regimes, even though they are anti-Democratic.

Yet, American recognition of anti-Democratic governments cannot avoid doing three things:

1. Give communism anti-American propaganda.
2. Add to the uneasiness of shaky Democratic governments trying to survive under pressure from left and right.
3. Create skepticism among some people in backward countries about the sincerity of the United States in their Democratic future.

If the United States tries to intervene on the side of a Democratic regime in Latin America, it can be accused of butting into the people's affairs, a complaint the United States would like to avoid.

But if it refuses recognition of a right-wing government, and shuts off relations, it abandons any moderating force it might have asserted and leaves the field to a struggle between the far right and communism.

In Peru, where the military take-over is only 11 days old, American Ambassador James Loeb has been accused by the Peruvian foreign ministry of interfering in Peru's affairs.

The United States has suspended relations with the new regime and called Loeb home. Other Latin-American countries—Mexico and Chile, for instance—have suspended relations, too.

Just as big as any other dilemma for the United States in Latin America is this: How long can it keep on recognizing dictatorships—military or civilian—without encouraging more of the same until Kennedy's much-proclaimed Alliance for Progress looks like an empty gesture?

State Has 'Right To Work' Law

IBOP Has Second Thought on Nevada As Convention Site

Las Vegas, the gambling and entertainment capital of the U.S., has been chosen as the site of the 1963 convention of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, but it's a good bet the union will decide on another city outside Nevada.

Although the delegates to the 68th convention last week in San Francisco chose Las Vegas for the 68th meeting, it later was pointed out to them that Nevada has a so-called "right to work" law a statewide open shop, the IBOP commented today in its weekly newspaper, the Potters Herald.

The delegates then referred the question of the convention site to the executive board, the IBOP said. The union newspaper commented that a "right to work state" is an "anti-union state to potters."

In other convention business, the delegates considered 77 resolutions in the printed program, plus others entered on the floor. The IBOP said the executive board, with the advice of counsel, ruled out 14 resolutions as "unconstitutional" because they conflicted with some of the provisions of the constitution or with federal or state law.

E. L. Wheatley, president, referred to the questioned resolutions in an address. He said of the 77 resolutions, approximately 58 were proposed by three unions, and "most of them contain the same amateurish union-weakening intentions which have taken up most of the time of these conventions since my first attendance in 1928."

Wheatley and Charles F. Jordan, secretary-treasurer, urged the delegates to write to the U.S. Tariff Commission at Washington in support of applications of the U.S. Potters Association and the Fine China Guild for additional protection against imports.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, after an address to the convention, was presented a sugar and cream service made by the Hall China Co. of East Liverpool.

Red Cross Swim Lessons Offered

The second session of free Red Cross swimming lessons will begin Aug. 6, and will run for a three-week period, Monday through Friday, concluding Aug. 24.

The Park Commission helps sponsor the program by providing the pool and helping to obtain instructors.

Sign-up for the second session will start at 9 a.m. Wednesday at the Centennial Park Swimming Pool.

Parents must sign a parental consent slip provided by the Red Cross, which will be issued at the time of registration. The slips must be returned no later than the day class begins.

The following classes will be offered:

9 a.m., Water Safety Aides; beginners 9 years of age and over and swimmers.

10 a.m., Intermediates, beginners, 6-9 years of age.

11 a.m., beginners, 6-8 years of age.

The classes are for persons in the immediate Salem area. Persons wanting to repeat classes from the first swimming session closing July 27 will not be accepted.

A course in Junior and Senior Life Safety will be given in the evening if enough interest is shown.

KENTUCKY MAN HELD
CINCINNATI (AP)—Police say Jerry Finn, 24, of Covington, Ky., sought for questioning in an attempt to extort $20,000 from a Roman Catholic priest, has surrendered to Covington officers but

HITS GOVERNMENT JOBS

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Robert Taft Jr., campaigning for Ohio's Congress-at-large post, has criticized what he calls steady increase in numbers of government jobholders. He told the Hamilton Young Republican Club Thursday night that nine million of the 67 million American workers are in some government service and the 1963 federal budget proposes adding 121,000 more.

Campaign In Illinois Can Be Hazardous

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — O. A. Wilson can attest that campaigning in a rural Illinois county has its hazards.

Wilson, a Democrat running for re-election as Jersey county superintendent of schools, said Thursday he has been bitten by three dogs and chased by a turkey gobbler in his door-to-door campaign.

But, he said, the attacks seem to be non-partisan. Two of the dogs were owned by Democrats and one by a Republican.

Wilson didn't learn the party affiliation of the gobbler's owner. "I didn't stick around long enough to find out," he said. "You have to be chased by one to understand."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 27, the 208th day of 1962. There are 157 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1866, the steamer Great Eastern moved into Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, paying out the telegraph cable dragged laboriously from Ireland. After two heart-breaking attempts had failed, Cyrus W. Field hooked up the cables, setting up instantaneous communication between Europe and America.

On this date:

In 1789, the Department of Foreign Affairs — now the State Department — was established by Congress.

In 1892, pensions of eight dollars a month were granted surviving veterans of the Indian wars from 1832 to 1842.

In 1909, Orville Wright set a world record for planes when he and a passenger remained in flight one hour, one minute and 40 seconds.

In 1940, the Royal Air Force made massive raids on French port cities held by the Nazis.

In 1955, the Allied Council held its last meeting in Vienna and Austria formally regained her sovereignty.

Today's birthdays: San Francisco Dodgers coach Leo Durocher is 56. Actor Keenan Wynn is 46.

Thought for today: Look to your health; and if you have it praise God, and value it next to a good conscience (Izaak Walton).

See What's On Telstar

It may be self-consciousness that gives rise to a feeling the experts are wondering if the rest of us really understand how Telstar, the first communications satellite, really works. We don't, you know.

We have taken it in stride, giving it no more than the attention we can spare from a summertime routine of vacations, ball games, picnics, gardening, golf and, of course, our assorted jobs.

We have not been awestruck.

But when it comes down to that, we haven't been awestruck by anything in recent years. There's a curious quirk of psychology in this.

TELSTAR doesn't awe-strike us because we had known for a long time it was going to be tried and believed implicitly it would work—if not the first time, then the second time, or the third time.

We have no doubts about such things. We believe anything of a scientific nature that takes form in the mind of man can be done if enough effort and money are put into the project. We have believed this since the energy of the atom was released during World War II and the United States demonstrated potential ability to purge the earth of mankind. After that—and this is the psychological quirk—it became impossible to go back to our accustomed habit of being Doubting Thomases. We have perfect faith in science.

We knew all along that Telstar would do what it was supposed to do, though we don't know how it does it. But that is of no importance either, because we never actually understood radio. Some of us can't even explain the working of a telephone to a growing child. There are so many things in science we don't understand that our ignorance is a bother only to scientists, who deplore it.

WE BELIEVE what they tell us; that's the way it goes.

They say they're going to lob a man around the earth, and they do.

They say they're going to shoot men to the moon, and they will. But if someone says they're going to reduce taxes or disarm, but that we're doubtful about because scientists aren't in charge of taxes and disarmament.

Telstar is the first communications satellite of its kind. They promise more later—enough to keep one overhead all the time. They'll do it, too.

We'll have pictures of sunrise all around the earth one day, a different picture for every degree of latitude.

We'll let Europe see the scenes of a national convention unfold in 1964—live!

We'll go with the camera to the next ordeal of street rioting in Paris—live

But darned if we can get excited about it! It's the same quirk of psychology that has made us feel blasé ever since they told us an atomic bomb had wiped Hiroshima off the map of Japan on Aug. 6, 1945 and followed it up by doing likewise to Nagasaki three days later.

Since then, everything has been an anticlimax.

What's on Telstar tonight? Anything?

An Adventure In Public Charm

The passage of 10 years since Adlai E. Stevenson's nomination for the presidency by the Democratic National Convention in 1952 is one of those telescoping of time that become more confusing as all of us grow older.

Can it have been a decade since everybody's candidate for president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, was confronted with the Democrats' most charming public personality?

As it was to turn out in November, Gov. Stevenson and his running mate John J. Sparkman of Alabama, had been running for their health. It was obvious by convention time that the Democrats would be nominating caretaker candidates and that the candidates would know it, but never has an individual worked harder to live up to his reputation than the witty and articulate man from Illinois worked in the campaign of 1952.

He became the central figure in an adventure in public charm that even his opponents enjoyed. As the campaign wore on, some of the graceful Stevenson touch was to wear off, which was to have been expected as he grew tired and testy. He knew far more clearly than the mass of voters knew that he was losing ground daily to a charm that outshone his — the world-famous Eisenhower grin and that "I Like Ike" psychology which was going to bring about an electoral landslide of 442 votes to Stevenson's 89 — 39 states to Stevenson's 9.

By 1956, when he was "drafted" again, Gov. Stevenson was listening to advisers who were warning him against being charming. He tried to heed their advice, without too much success, and ended up with 73 electoral votes to Eisenhower's 457 and only 7 states to Eisenhower's 41.

Except for one brief flurry of determination by Stevensonians in Los Angeles at the 1960 Democratic convention, that was, the end of the line for perhaps the most articulate and wittiest presidential candidate of the 20th century. It's hard to believe it has been 10 years since the country was charmed to make his acquaintance.

Pets, Naturally

The annual pet parade and contest is one of the highlights of the summer playground program here, to wit, the attendance of 200 children and almost as many dogs, cats, rabbits, turtles, fish, birds, hamsters, mice, crickets and assorted other favorites Wednesday afternoon at Centennial Park.

Rusty Tomlinson and his staff of playlot supervisors are to be commended for this and the other diversified recreational activities that are provided for the enjoyment and education of Salem youngsters who otherwise might find too much time on their hands during the summer months when school is closed. The pet show is a natural.

A New Mexico man celebrated his 101st birthday, giving him just one soft year.

No Leg-Pulling

They're having a flap about Shakespeare's "birthplace" in Stratford Upon Avon, dubbed the "world's biggest leg-pull" by Roderick Eagle, who claims it's a phony.

According to Eagle the house is scarcely 100 years old and not worth the awe with which it's viewed by a quarter of a million visitors a year. Naturally, this point of view has stirred opposition in Stratford. Mr. Eagle's tail feathers are being pulled out, even if he is a literary expert.

But mark well the official Stratford explanation. It embodies the secret of Britain's thriving industry of showing visitors historic places—and there are hundreds of them.

The house that purports to be Shakespeare's birthplace, the explanation makes clear, is on the site of his probable birthplace. The house itself is a restoration, structurally accurate though not actually the house where Shakespeare was born.

Everything we looked at, including the Shakespeare birthplace, was to some extent a restoration. Scaffolding is as much a part of the historic scene as functionaries selling tickets and fluttery ladies who take you around.

In the case of cathedrals, all visitors are asked to contribute to this never-ending work. Castles and historic places charge admission for upkeep.

Over the course of centuries just about everything that existed originally has been replaced at least once. Even the structures now in ruins are kept that way by diligent maintenance. Otherwise, everything would have been reduced to dust long ago.

Of course the house in Stratford isn't where Shakespeare was born. It can't even be proved he was born on the site of the

Primitive Camping

Any local campers wanting to "rough it" for a few days, don't have to drive into Pennsylvania, West Virginia or Kentucky hills anymore. The new primitive camping area at Beaver State Park near East Liverpool is now open although there's never been any formal announcement.

Seventeen camp sites in the area are so marked and three others are being staked out, situated on a hill high above Echo Dell. Elmer Hiles is the park manager, in case you want to exchange the niceties of civilian life for the serenity that Beaver Creek State Park offers.

By Truman Twill

house. But it doesn't really matter to the people who go there. The town is beautiful. It is a tourist mecca. It's where the Bard once lived. What else matters?

We saw one place that probably is the way it was when its occupants made it famous—the Wordsworth Cottage at Grasmere. This is where the poet he and his sister Dorothy lived when she began to write her "Journal."

Here the poet saw the "fields of laughing daffodils" that all of us envisioned through his words when we learned them as school children. Personally, I had thought of them as fields of cultivated daffodils, but in fact they were wild daffodils that still grow on the hillsides around Grasmere.

Dove Cottage isn't really old yet, as antiquity is measured in England. The Wordsworth lived there in 1800, only a little more than a century and a half ago. But you can bet on this: That 200 years from now Dove Cottage will still be there, restored, and schoolmarm guides will still be taking reverential tourists through its low-ceilinged rooms.

Restoration is not leg-pulling. It's a concession to the respect most of us feel for places where important things once happened. The British turn this respect into an industry. It took them a long time to quit sacking their historic buildings, but now they turn them over to the National Trust for perpetual care.

We're still bulldozing ours, and at the rate we're going there won't be anything left to visit by the time we come to our senses. Our tourists will have nothing to look at but superhighways, gas stations, drive-ins and the place where Jimmy Dean wrecked his sports car.

Quite a Dinner Pail!

Visitors Image of Us

By LEON DENNEN

The roads that led generations of Americans to Paris, Rome and Athens in search of amusement, education and culture now bring scores of Europeans for similar reasons to New York, Cleveland, Chicago and Dallas.

This time they come to the United States not as immigrants in search of economic security or persecuted refugees seeking a haven but as students and tourists eager to discover America.

"Frankly, I never thought I would find the ordinary American so warm-hearted and generous," said Oystein Lillestak, a tall blond high school student from Norway.

"I've met in Norway American tourists and G.I.s. Some were good and some bad—like all tourists and soldiers. I saw Hollywood movies and have read American writers from Mark Twain to William Faulkner. But I never believed that I would fall in love with America."

"WE WERE TOLD that Americans have no culture," said darkeyed Helen Mavroukaki from Greece. "I found more genuine interest in painting, music and dancing in Dallas where I attended high school for a year than in Rome or my native Athens."

Oystein and Helen were members of a group of some 2,000 high school students from 49 countries who spent a year in the United States under the American Field Service international scholarship program. In 1,900 communities across the nation they had been living with farmers, factory workers, salesmen and bank clerks in homes carefully matching those of the students.

Of course there were aspects of American life like racial discrimination that the students did not like. But the majority agreed with Gurkan Altuna of Turkey that Americans are notoriously bad propagandists despite the fact that public relations has become a fine art in the United States.

A House Appropriations subcommittee thus completely missed the point recently in criticizing the Kennedy Administration's $4,200,000 plan to attract tourists to the United States. The old cliché that "seeing is believing" still holds true.

THE FACT is that foreign visitors are discovering a new image of America. It bears little resemblance to Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad" or Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street." It is radically different from the distorted image of the smug, conformist, dollar-mad American which has been painted by many contemporary literary snobs tormented by their Freudian self-hatred.

Indeed, it was a brilliant writer from France, Andre Malraux, who saw the promise of contemporary America when he recently said in New York:

"For culture, for the freedom of the mind, I offer a toast to the only nation that has waged war but not worshipped it, that has won the greatest power in the world but not sought it, that has wrought the greatest weapon of death but not wished to wield it and may it inspire men with dreams worthy of its action."

EVEN BEHIND THE Iron Curtain they are beginning to learn the truth about the United States. Here, for instance, is what Ludwik Dembinsky who spent a few months as a student at Harvard wrote about America after he returned to Communist Poland:

"Despite a very high standard of living and a very high degree of everyday comfort, there are few signs of the satiety now characteristic of European society. . . . It is true that one can be a real American, not only through a passport but in one's heart, without ceasing to be an Italian, a German or a Pole, a thing impossible in any European country."

"Americans," Dembinsky concluded, "do not give the impression of a declining society." Was he, in his own way, giving the lie to Nikita Khrushchev's oft-repeated assertion that the Red hammer and sickle will one day fly over a degenerating America?

Soviets Reply to Writer's Views on Disarming

The "Soviet News Bulletin," which is published in each country by the Soviet embassies and legations, now has made public various replies received to a questionnaire sent out by the Moscow "Literary Gazette," in which this question was asked:

"Do you believe that general disarmament is possible now or in the nearest future?"

This writer received a request for his views on this question and airmailed a reply on May 15, which now has been published, together with a comment by the Soviets. Under the heading, "I don't see any chance. . . . David Lawrence, American publicist," it was quoted in full:

"Replying to your request for my opinion as to whether disarmament 'is possible now or in the near future,' I regret to say that I do not think it is. I say this because, to achieve any international agreement, it is necessary to have good faith on both sides. Unfortunately, the record of the Soviet government in breaking agreements repeatedly makes many people in the United States feel that a disarmament agreement wouldn't be worth the paper on which it is written.

"We in America also find it difficult to accept the word of a government which doesn't believe in God, and which, in our judgment, doesn't believe in morality.

"Disarmament will be achieved only when there is good faith, and this cannot happen until there is a decided change in the attitude of the Communist government toward its pledges and written words.

"We believe that if the people of the Soviet Union had a free government and elected their officials in free elections, progress could be made toward the establishment of good faith and mutual trust."

EDITORS of the "Literary Gazette" headed their comment: "Thanks for your frankness, Mr. Lawrence." Here is the verbatim excerpt as distributed by the "Soviet News Bulletin":

The answer of David Lawrence, an opponent of disarmament, deserves the attention of broad sections of readers — even though it is permeated with fierce malice against our country. Indeed, it is the frankest statement of the position of U.S. influential circles. They are against disarmament. They are for the preservation of international tension and the armaments race, which not only bring tremendous profits to the United States monopolies, but help them to enslave the underdeveloped countries in Latin America, Asia, Europe . . .

"Rejecting the idea of general disarmament, Mr. Lawrence advances 'conditions' on which he and his masters would agree to be more lenient. There are two conditions in the main: We, Soviet people, must believe in God, and replace the existing system in our country by a system similar to the American, allegedly 'democratic' and 'free.'

"BUT BELIEF in God did not prevent the U.S. government from violating the agreements it solemnly signed in Potsdam on the demilitarization and democratization of Germany, from arming the West German Revanchist Militarists, despite these agreements. Belief in God does not prevent that government from exploding nuclear bombs in outer space, regardless of the obligation, it itself adopted, to work jointly with the Soviet Union on the peaceful study of outer space.

"We are for strengthening confidence between our states. And we do not place any conditions for replacing the U.S. social system."

"Mr. Lawrence's letter does not raise the prestige of that system in our eyes. As is known from numerous statements made by foreign agencies, the overwhelming majority of the American people are demanding ever more resolutely that their government agree to disarmament, that it stop nuclear-weapon tests.

"However, those to whom power belongs in the U.S.A., do not heed these demands of the people. Is that democracy?"

"Distrust is great and mutual. However, both sides must now exert all efforts to overcome this distrust, to ease tension. The Soviet side is doing everything possible for this."

The significant paragraph in the Soviet comment is at the very end, where it is conceded that "distrust is great and mutual" and that the real problem is to exert efforts to overcome this distrust.

While the Soviet article says that their side is "doing everything possible for this," it is to be noted that the Geneva Conference on Disarmament is breaking up without an inch being given in the negotiations by the Moscow government.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE referred to above was circulated prior to the World Congress for General Disarmament and was designed to show that political and public leaders, scientists and writers of different countries are all favorable to disarmament.

The only other comment from the United States published in the "Soviet News Bulletin" is headed "Conscience of America," by Howard Lawson, identified by the Soviets as an "American writer and public leader."

He declares that "there are forces in the United States which are determined to pursue aggressive policies and to maintain international tensions as a means of extending their power."

The published answers from various individuals in other countries in the main follow the Communist line and it is interesting to note that it was only concerning the statement of this writer that the Soviet editors felt constrained to make any comment of their own.

Office Siesta

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, (AP) — Probably the biggest misfit in America's new physical fitness campaign is the tired office worker.

Pallid-faced and slack-chested, he droops over his desk like a piece of wet laundry hung from the family clothesline. He barely has the strength to totter back and forth to the water cooler half a dozen times a day.

There are those who think the answer to the rehabilitation of the tired business employee is to provide him with a lot more fresh air and exercise. Frankly, I think this would be more likely to kill than cure him.

It isn't more exercise the ordinary office worker needs. He gets more than enough exercise now simply by trying to avoid doing his work. What he really needs is more rest—on company time.

The answer, as I see it, is to revive the old-fashioned siesta — right in the office.

Why do American housewives so consistently outlive their husbands? A partial explanation probably is that they are never far from a sofa while performing their household chores. Whenever they feel bit weary, they simply lie down and take a nap until the feeling goes away. Then they rise refreshed.

Now let's take the ordinary male office employee. He has probably stayed up to watch the mid-night movie on television and wakes up late.

There is no time for a hearty breakfast. Red-eyed from lack of sleep he races to the office and snacks on hot coffee and a sodden cruller.

By noon he is all worn out. Then he goes out for lunch and hungrily gulps down a meal that would stun a python.

When he stumbles back into the office, he can hardly keep his eyes open. Numb with fatigue, he toys restlessly at the papers on his desk all afternoon, getting little or no work done.

What the average office needs is to fill its locker room with couches. After returning from lunch, each wornout employee would stretch out on a couch and, lulled by soft music, grab a good solid hour of shut-eye.

When he got up, restored in mind and body, he would be able to get twice as much work done in the remainder of the afternoon as he does now.

If we are to rejuvenate our white collar class and make them physically fit again—and this has become a patriotic duty—they'll have to get more restful sleep somewhere.

What better place than the office?

Yearbook to Be Distributed At Leetonia Dance Aug. 1

LEETONIA — The 1961-62 Leetonia High School yearbooks will be distributed at an all-high dance party Wednesday evening at 7:30 at Orchard Hill School.

Members of the Senior Class of '62 have charge of arrangements. The Women's Society of Christian Service held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the social room of the Methodist Church, with Mrs. Merle Davis and Mrs. Willard Davis as hostesses.

The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. Russell Shive. Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton presented the devotion and program using the theme "The Church and Today's Student."

The next meeting will be Aug. 2 with Mrs. Wilson Corns and Mrs. D. D. Calvin as the hostesses.

Rebekah Lodge will sponsor a benefit card party this evening, with Mrs. Elmer Kliner as chairman.

Mrs. Robert Kornbau and Mrs. George Weikart attended an all day district meeting of the W.S.C.S. at the Methodist Church in Columbiana Tuesday.

AT A SPECIAL MEETING of the members of the Board of Trustees of Public Affairs Wednesday, it was decided that due to the lateness of mailing the quarterly water bills, the discount Aug. 15, inclusive.

The Mennonite Hour Men's Chorus and Pastor B. Charles Hostetter, speaker on the Mennonite Hour, will be at the Midway Mennonite Church, north of Columbiana, Saturday evening for a public concert.

A strawberry festival will be held from Saturday evening at the Leetonia Methodist Church.

JERRY THORNTON of North Canton, a student of Hamma Divinity School of Springfield, will again be in charge of the worship service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

The Rev. and Mrs. M. A. Stull of Springfield were recent guests of Pastor and Mrs. T. P. Laughner on their way home from a visit to Dr. and Mrs. James R. Stull in Liberia, Africa. The Stulls and the Laughners were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sittler.

Mrs. William Gross and children of Dayton is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Culver Stewart of 440 Pearl St.

Harvard Refuses Gift Offered By SOB Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvard University has turned down a $100 gift offered by the "Sons of Business Society" — which was formed to poke fun at President Kennedy, Harvard '40.

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, who founded the society, had said the money would be offered to Harvard to set up a scholarship so someone could study "what makes the economy tick."

The funds were raised through the sale of 25-cent "Sons of Business" buttons, which show a sad-faced hound peering out of a doghouse.

But the Ohio Republican said Thursday Harvard's recording secretary, Eugene G. Kraetzer Jr., had declined the offer. Kraetzer said Harvard officials decided the university "should not become involved in the society's affairs."

Ayres formed the society as a joke, saying the title "Sons of Business" would add "dignity to the term 'S.O.B.' which I understand a well-known Harvard alumnus used to describe businessmen."

That was a dig at Kennedy for the "sons-of-bitches" remark he is said to have made about some big businessmen when some major steel companies raised their prices last April. The increases later were rescinded under presidential pressure.

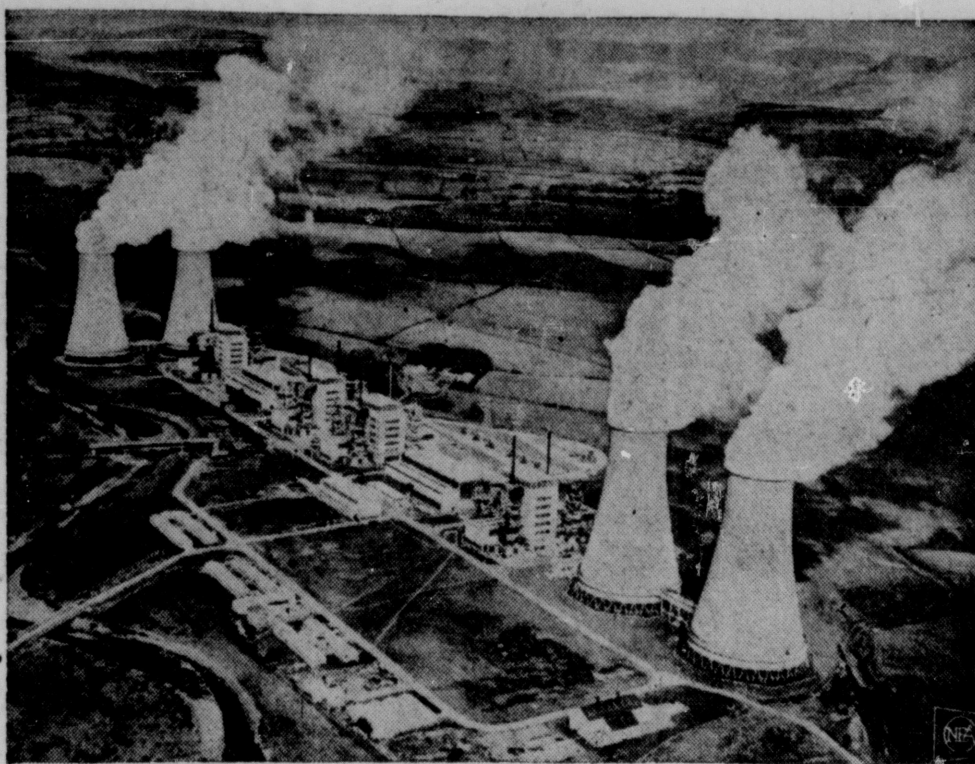

Ayres said he has been swamped with requests for "Sons of Business" buttons, and sales so far have netted more than $500. He said the money will go to orphanages.

Thieves Get $42 at Super 30 Drive-In LISBON — Thieves took $42.45 from the cigarette machine and an undetermined amount of candy early Thursday morning from the snack bar at the Super 30 Drive-In-Theatre, according to sheriff's deputies.

A bread truck driver reported at 5:25 a.m. to the sheriff's office he saw two men running from the drive-in theatre when he approached.

The thieves entered by kicking out a panel in the door of the snack bar, according to Deputy Herman Wellman who investigated.

POWER PUFFS — White puffs of smoke billow from huge reactor towers of Britain's first nuclear power station near Calder Hall, England. Station, the first in the world to produce electricity commercially, has been in operation since 1956 on England's seacoast.

Taylor Invited to Assist Gov. DiSalle

Former state senator John Taylor of Salem was today asked to be a member of Governor DiSalle's 1962 campaign speakers bureau and to attend an organizational meeting Aug. 3 at the Governor's Mansion in Columbus.

Taylor is a member of the Democratic state advisory committee and was DiSalle's running mate in 1956 as the Democratic nominee for Lt. governor.

Taylor said he will accept the invitation to aid DiSalle provided he is not expected to drop his disapproval of the patronage policies of Columbiana County Democratic Chairman Don Gosney. Taylor has been a critic of Gosney for "political improprieties" which he said include serving on the County Election Board while being employed also by Congressman Hays who provided free trips to Europe for Gosney at taxpayers' expense.

Taylor and Gosney were opponents last November for the job of Democratic state central committeeman, which Gosney won.

With the Patients

Arthur B. Cody of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a former Salem resident, is a medical patient at Crile Veterans Hospital at Cleveland.

Norville Bradway Jr., 14, son of Norville Bradway Sr., of North Benton, was treated and released at 7:35 p.m. Thursday at Alliance City Hospital for insect stings on the face.

Bart Wyss of Beloit, 2-year-old son of Kenneth Wyss of Beloit, was treated and released at 1:20 p.m. Thursday at Alliance City Hospital for contusions of the foot.

Mahoning's Debt Is Less Than Feared

YOUNGSTOWN — Mahoning County's debt for the balance of 1962 is $200,000, instead of $463,000, with the result that department heads will have to cut spending by only 5 per cent, instead of the 10.18 per cent ordered last week.

The county budget commission yesterday signed an amended certificate of $4,357,679 for the county general fund. This is $200,000 less than the March certificate, $4,557,679.

Last week county auditor Stephen R. Olenick reported a debt of $463,000 but further study indicated several items that actually were not debts and therefore could not be included.

Largest item was $251,000 paid by the county for various political subdivisions for workmen's compensation. This is not a debt, however, because these subdivisions reimburse the county.

County commission chairman John Palermo said he was heartened by the reduction of the debt, but will call a meeting of all county department heads for Monday to discuss means of cutting expenses for the rest of this year by 5 per cent.

DANCE IS CANCELED

The scheduled dance Saturday evening at the Centennial Park Basketball Court has been canceled. Saturday night record dances will resume Aug. 3.

Life spans of insects vary greatly. A queen ant, for example, may survive as long as 16 years, while some mayflies have a 20-minute adulthood.

PIGGY TO MARKET — Hog production and slaughter are beginning to trend slowly upward following a drop in 1960, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Slaughter in 1962 will be slightly larger than last year. Production will probably increase in 1963, but no sizable slaughter gains.

Records Fall At Canfield Oval Saturday

There will be several records set when Canfield Speedway resumes auto racing on Saturday night. There will be a record number of cars on hand, the most drivers of the year. More races will be offered and fans will see more laps for a regular Saturday program.

With the week layoff, some 90 cars are expected to appear and of this 65 will be amateurs. The special disc jockey race will add 15 more drivers, making the list at least 105. A total of 12 races will be offered and it will cover some 149 laps of thrilling action.

Drivers, especially the amateurs, still are having their troubles getting around the sharp quarter-mile turns and so far this year the "upside-down club" lists six members. President of the group is Roy Shook of Boardman who has rolled three times. However, Shook has captured two feature victories.

Art Simcox of New Middletown, Mike Gregorino of Washingtonville, Don Eisenbraun of Struthers and Dick Crist of Youngstown are the other amateur members, while Junior Postlewait of Mineral Ridge is the one late model entry. A driver must roll over completely to be eligible. Bill Larson of Youngstown rolled his car on its side, but this doesn't count.

Most spectacular came when Crist flipped end-over-end in the last race at Canfield. Fortunately no one has been injured, other than a few bruises.

All of the top drivers are entered. One of the newcomers who is showing top form is Lloyd Washington of Mineral Ridge. He ran second to Chuck Daugherty his last race out. Bill Collier of Woodworth, Tom Jarrett of Girard and Jerry Carver of Canfield are other favorites for Saturday night.

Time trials are at 7 p.m. and first race at 8:30.

Man Cited for Letting Dogs Run at Large

Atty. Scott McCorkhill of 861 S. Lincoln Ave. has been cited by police for allowing his dogs to run at large. McCorkhill is a former city solicitor.

The two dogs were picked up Wednesday at different locations on Ohio Ave. Police said one of the dogs did not have a license. Both animals were released to their owner after he purchased a license from the county dog warden. McCorkhill's hearing will be in Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's court.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: My goodness sakes alive... I'm 63 years old and just found out how wives could prop the oven open when their meat loaf and baked potatoes (or anything they happen to be cookin' in the oven might be done — if their family or friends are not ready to eat on time! For years I have been puttin' a pot holder in the door of my oven so that some of the heat could get out to keep the food from cookin'.

My little daughter-in-law taught me that all one has to do is take a screwdriver and stick it at the top of the oven door. If you only want to let a little air in and the heat out.

She says that her neighbor uses an ice pick to prop her door open... but I do not recommend this because if the pick drops it might hurt your foot!

I think that all mothers-in-law should listen to these daughters-in-law as they might learn something themselves

MAJORIE CREWS

DEAR HELOISE: Recently I watched a friend of mine making tarts or individual pies. She had a very clever way of rolling her pastry.

She sprinkled a little flour on a piece of aluminum foil about 12 or 15 inches, rolled the dough out on the foil and trimmed off the excess dough... THEN she cut it into six pieces, using her scissors.

She pricked the dough with a fork to prevent air bubbles during baking. By pinching the corner of each little square she formed her shells! Place on a pie pan and bake as usual.

BETTY FORTH

This is a fabulous idea for square tarts. This same method can be used by rolling the dough flat on any piece of dusted (flour) foil. Then cut to fit any muffin pan or pie plate.

HELOISE

DEAR FOLKS: This is for those of you who make a big batch of cooked starch each week and want to strain it thoroughly before using so that it will not leave residue on the garments you are ironing.

Cut off an old nylon stocking about half way up. Then pour the starch through the nylon stocking and let it drain into a bowl. This will give you a perfectly strained starch.

I have found that pouring starch through tea strainers and flour sifters does not remove all of the sediment... therefore helps cause spots on dark clothes.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: When pressing drip-dry dresses, I find most garments look as good if pressed only in the back from the waistline to the hem and sometimes in the bend of the sleeve.

I zip through most of my drip-dries each week along with the regular ironing by pressing this way and my clothes really look nice.

Mr., Mrs. Paul vonTuchlinski Home Following Honeymoon

Miss Margaret Birchak, daughter of Mrs. Anna E. Birchak of Pine Lake Road, and Paul vonTuchlinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore vonTuchlinski of Stolp, Germany, were married June 30 in St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Rev. William Witt officiated at the 11:30 a.m. double ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and vases of gladioli and mums. Mrs. Leon Kuniewicz presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother, Andrew Birchak, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta with Sabrina neckline and long sleeves. The full bouffant skirt of silk organza ended in a brush sweep. Her veil of silk illusion was caught to a queen's crown, and she carried her mother's prayer book topped with white mums centered with an orchid and streamers of ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Bonnie Couture of Columbus was matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Huzar and Miss Lillian Huzar of Atwater were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of nylon chiffon. Mrs. Couture in pink and the bridesmaids in blue. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Marjorie Cook of Tucson, Ariz., who was gowned in blue. All wore matching crowns with small circular veils and carried cascade bouquets.

Francine Mrugala was flower girl in a pink nylon floor-length hooped skirt, and Michael Joseph Birchak was ringbearer.

John vonTuchlinski of Pittsburgh, Calif., served his brother as best man, and ushering were Joseph Birchak of Warren, brother of the bride, Robert Mitchell and William Mitchell.

Following the ceremony the wedding-dinner was served at the American Slovak Hall which later was the scene for the reception at which 300 guests were registered by Mrs. Harry E. Cook of Tucson, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Carmelo.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, and bouquets of the bridesmaids added to the decor. Mrs. Paul Wisler, Mrs. George Mitchell and

But No More Military Assistance

Laos Chief To Ask U.S. Economic Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos is expected to ask for continued U.S. economic support but no further military assistance when he meets today with President Kennedy.

Laotian diplomats said the prime minister also would talk to Kennedy about the South Viet Nam war against Communist infiltrators and the five American prisoners now being held by pro-Communist troops in northern Laos.

Before the late morning session at the White House, Souvanna

Phouma, 62, is scheduled to meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Assistance to the newly formed neutral government also is a likely subject of discussion later in the day when the Laotian leader confers with Treasury Department and foreign aid officials.

Kennedy is expected to assure Souvanna Phouma that the United States will honor its obligations to Laos and expects all other nations, Laos included, to live up to commitments that it be neutral and independent.

The two leaders continue their discussion at a luncheon after the White House meeting.

In considering the problem of continued U.S. aid to the neutralist regime, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., suggested Thursday night that the burden of aid for the Southeast Asian kingdom be borne by all 14 countries which signed the accord at Geneva last Monday guaranteeing the neutrality of Laos.

Sparkman told a reporter he is considering making a proposal that the 14 nations, including the Communist bloc countries, Communist China and North Viet Nam, join with the West and neutral nations in Southeast Asia in providing economic and technical assistance to Laos.

When informed of Sparkman's proposal, Souvanna Phouma said he would welcome such an arrangement.

In general, Souvanna Phouma appeared to feel that there would be no problem in the withdrawal of foreign forces, including 10,000 North Vietnamese soldiers, from his kingdom.

Test Ban

ported on just how far the United States should go in its new proposals. Some members of Kennedy's White House staff were said to favor eliminating the demand for internationally staffed control posts on Soviet territory and to rely instead on more distant scientific installations to detect any sneak atomic explosions once the ban was in effect.

Other questions up for decisions were how much to reduce the proposed number of inspections which would be made at the source of an unidentified earth shock in Soviet territory, and how much to cut back the number of control posts proposed.

The problem of on-site inspections arises from the fact that, even with the best scientific instruments presently available, not all earth shock can be identified as to origin—whether caused by a nuclear explosion or by an earthquake.

The Western powers recently called for 19 control posts on Soviet territory to be manned permanently by combined staffs of Soviet, Western and neutral personnel. Consideration has been given to reducing the number of posts by 50 per cent or more.

mine whether such explosions could be used to screen sneak missile attacks.

There has been no official explanation of the reason for the deliberate destruction Wednesday night of the Thor rocket which was to have carried a nuclear warhead aloft. One report here said it was caused by "human error" on the part of a civilian technician during pre-launch preparations.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Daniel Umstead

Mrs. Ella J. Umstead, 93, formerly of N. Ellsworth Ave., died at 1:30 a.m. today at the Central Clinic after one week's illness following an injury received in a fall.

Born July 25, 1869, in North Jackson, she was a daughter of John and Amanda Craver Blott. She married Daniel B. Umstead March 8, 1891. He died March 3, 1908.

A member of the First Friends Church, she had lived here all her married life, coming from North Jackson.

She is survived by two sons with whom she had been living, Paul of RD, Salem, and Stuart of 256 W. 10th St., four grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Two brothers Dr. H. E. Blott of Youngstown, and W. L. Blott of Whittier, Calif., preceded her in death.

Rev. H. B. Winn will officiate at the 2 p.m. funeral service at Arbaugh-Pearce Funeral Home Monday. Burial will be in Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

Strike

One of the first effects of the changes—announced July 17 by the railroads—would be dropping of the jobs of 13,000 firemen employed on diesel locomotives.

Some 27,000 other firemen working as second men in cabs and freight yard service would retain their positions. The proposed job cuts also do not affect firemen occupying second cab posts in diesels used in passenger service.

In taking the preventive action the union were compelled to oppose favorable terms of the work changes. These included recommended pay increases for some 75 per cent of the operating employees.

Property Damage Caused by Vandals

A considerable amount of property damage was caused by vandals Thursday night at the Salem Auto Wrecking Co., 1000 S. Ellsworth, owner Sanford Metz reported to police today.

Metz said that when he arrived at work this morning, he discovered that someone had broken headlights and windows and let the air out of tires in vehicles parked there. He said a battery had been taken out of a truck and hurled through the windshield of a car.

It was not immediately determined whether anything was stolen. On a window at the rear of the shop, the vandals wrote with a red crayon, "Thanks for the parts." It was signed, "Mr. X."

County To Ask Use of Civil War Locomotive

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners were asked Thursday by Ed Pugh of Wellsville, who is planning the centennial celebration of Morgan's raid for July 27, 1963, to request the Civil War Centennial Commission for permission to use the great Civil War locomotive during the celebration.

The locomotive would be used to transport "Morgan and his raiders" from Salineville to Wellsville.

The commissioners are expected to make application for the locomotive at once.

The board of commissioners' next meeting will be Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

SAFETY SIGN — With back-to-school time getting closer, it's not too soon to think of student safety. Police officials in Lawrence, Kan., recently installed new "flip signs" to replace the old style movable signs commonly seen in the middle of the street in school areas. Sign in horizontal position, left, permits normal flow of traffic. When flipped and locked in vertical position, right, stop sign is visible to motorists. The new sign eliminates the necessity of rolling the old, cumbersome signs from the curb to the center street and puts an end to their removal by thieves and pranksters.

prosecution which resulted in pleas of guilty or no contest by 29 firms and 45 of their officers or employees.

The companies were fined a total of $1,926,000 and seven individuals were sentenced to 30 days in jail.

"After carefully analyzing government purchases and after extensive negotiations," Kennedy said, "we and TVA believe the lump sum figure of $7.47 million from General Electric represents an equitable settlement for the United States."

The settlement is intended to cover excessive payments made by the government and TVA to General Electric as a result of purchases during the period of the conspiracy.

The figure was not broken down according to the particular products involved in the suit.

But during the course of the conspiracy, the government bought about $12 million and TVA about $57.6 million worth of equipment in the various categories covered by the suits.

GE is required to make the settlement payment within 10 days, with the government moving to dismiss the pending suits against the firm within 30 days.

The 11 suits were filed in U.S. District Court for Eastern Pennsylvania, with TVA joining as a plaintiff in six of them. GE was the only firm named as defendant in all 11.

bill, due almost entirely to funds for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The space agency requested $3,787,276,000 in new funds and was allotted $3,644,115,000.

The committee turned down a request for $100 million in new funds for grants and loans for mass transportation projects in urban areas on the ground the request exceeded the authorized ceiling. It approved $32.5 million for projects already authorized.

Krim-Boudiaf appeal as "a call for murder, a reaction of despair and of a lost cause." He said steps eventually would be taken against the two deputy premiers.

The odds looked overwhelmingly in favor of Ben Bella. He is backed by the regular 45,000-man National Liberation army and at least half the former guerrilla units. Ben Bella supporters control most of eastern and western Algeria and the Saharan interior.

The only force apparently capable of blocking a Ben Bella takeover was the 400,000-man French army in Algeria, and for the moment at least it remained on the sidelines. Government sources in Paris said the French army would intervene only to protect any Frenchmen who were endangered.

Election Board Mails Ballot Specifications

Specifications have been mailed job printers in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem and Lisbon, seeking bids on ballots for the Nov. 6 general election. Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, said today.

The board will open bids on the ballot printing at its office here Aug. 14 at 2 p.m. There will be an office-type ballot listing state, county and district candidates; a non-partisan judicial ballot and probably a ticket listing an anticipated amendment to the state constitution relating to Sunday sales of certain merchandise.

At the same time it opens ballot bids, the election board will pass on the sufficiency of nominating petitions filed by candidates for three county judge positions. The filing deadline for the posts is Aug. 8 at 4 p.m.

Negroes Set Mass Meeting In Albany

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negro strategists begin putting into effect today carefully concealed plans in their assault on racial lines in this desegregation test spot.

Mass meetings were set for noon and 6 p.m. after nearly 1,000 Negroes got lessons Thursday night in nonviolent protest methods.

"You will be given directions at that time," said Dr. W. G. Anderson, president of the Albany Movement.

Whether marches or other demonstrations would come was conjectural but 200 police officers stood ready to jail any demonstrators.

During the respite, Negro leaders headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spent hours in conference.

Anderson said the strategy talks "could very well shape the destiny of the Albany Movement."

He said both King and his associate, The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, would be at the mass meetings. Anderson urged defiance of "forces working against us" and said the movement would not be stopped by all of Georgia's National Guardsmen, the Ku Klux Klan or anything else.

The possibility of martial law was voiced Thursday by Gov. Ernest Vandiver who said the state would move in if necessary to keep order. A Klan leader said the hooded order was ready to help curb the Negro integration thrust.

"If it means a nationwide pilgrimage into Albany to pray for the city—we will do that," Anderson said at the rally. Another spokesman said simultaneous demonstrations might be staged in other cities should protests resume here.

Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr. said he received a telephone call Thursday from U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy who expressed concern about the situation.

The attorney general was quoted by Kelley as saying he hoped the matter "could be peacefully resolved without the intervention of the National Guard."

"I told him the only way this could be resolved was for the Rev. King and his companions to make an exit," Kelley said. "If they would, the city commission would be glad to hear the Negroes' complaints."

TELEPHONE IN THE SKY—Stewardess Hope Patterson telephones New York from an American Airlines jet 28,000 over Lakehurst, N.J., during a demonstration of skyphone service. The service eventually will provide for calls to and from equipped planes from coast to coast. Any long distance operator can get the plane and the rates, in general, are comparable to regular ground-to-long distance calls.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Questions And Answers

—What causes ulcerated veins in the legs? Especially around the ankles? I am 46 years old.

A—In all likelihood you have varicose veins that extend all the way up to your thighs. And perhaps beyond. If you already have ulcers around your ankles, probably nothing will take care of the condition other than an operation.

However, before you submit to surgery you had better get down to normal weight if you have become obese. And wear supportive stockings until most of the swelling has gone down and the ulcer gets a chance to heal. Then, after the operation, be sure to keep your weight down and resume the wearing of supportive stockings. These should be full length. And remember to put them on while you are lying down with your leg elevated.

Q—Last year, on your advice, my family and I took influenza vaccine but we still came down with attacks of grippe. Do you still favor the vaccine?

A—Yes, indeed. But let me remind you of several facts:

(1) You must take influenza virus vaccine, not that made with influenza bacilli.

(2) In the presence of an epidemic, take the special influenza virus vaccine that's made from cultures of the specific type of influenza virus that's causing the epidemic (Asian strain, etc.).

(3) Don't expect absolute immunity for, at best, specific strain influenza virus vaccine is only 62 per cent effective.

However, even in those who did not obtain absolute protection, almost every one of those immunized had a milder attack of much less duration than those who were not immunized at all.

Q—My husband has tuberculosis, and his doctor wants him to gain weight. I am supposed to give him a lot of cream, butter, eggs and bacon.

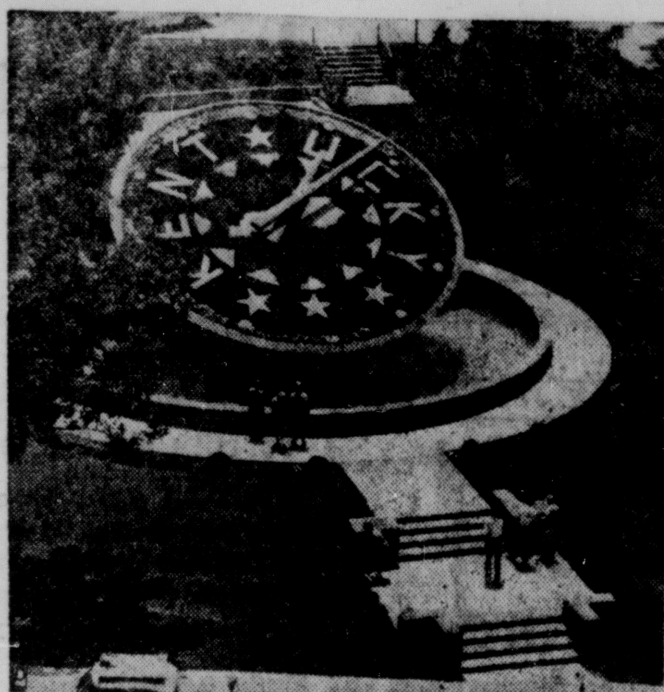

But he also has a high blood pressure, and we were told that fats made cholesterol and cholesterol made hardening of the arteries and that hardening of the arteries causes high blood pressure. What are we to do?

A—I don't blame you for being confused. However, while most of us subscribe to the view that overweight is responsible for arterial hardening and high blood pressure, we are not at all certain that the villain in the case is cholesterol.

Indeed, it is quite possible that elevation of the cholesterol content of the blood is partially due to the fact that the patient is atherosclerotic and hypertensive.

In support of this view is a recent study of tuberculous patients who were eating a high calorie, high fat diet. To the surprise of none of us with long clinical experience, the tuberculous patients had a lower content of blood fats and a lesser incidence of heart disease than a control group whose diet was neither high in calories nor in fats.

So you'd better do just what your husband's doctor told you to do.

FLOWER TIME — The floral clock on the grounds of the state capitol in Frankfort, Ky., draws visitors and witticisms such as: "What time is it?" "Three petunias past four roses."

Washingtonville

Members of the Bethel Class of the Methodist church met recently in the church, with 21 members present. Mrs. John Volpe, president, opened the meeting with a reading, "Faith Will Find A Way," from the book "The Upper Room." Mrs. Donald Vignon gave a book report on "Fellowship of Suffering."

Contests entertained at the social period, with Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. Charles Grindle, and Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. Charles Grindle, Mrs. Virginia Snyder winning prizes. Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Harold Rohrer and Mrs. Ted Newton. August hostesses will be Mrs. Hugh McIntosh and Mrs. George Stouffer.

Floral Clock At Frankfort Draws Visitors

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Even before Gov. Bert Combs dedicated his huge floral clock on the capitol grounds last May, he couldn't resist a pun.

"Kentucky," he said, "wants to keep up with the times."

And his enemies couldn't resist a few retorts.

"It's amazing what some people will think of when they have nothing better to do," said former Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, a perennial Combs foe.

Jokes about the big flowered clock are becoming legion.

It's known as Combs' Folly or Big Bert—alluding to London's Big Ben.

When America's first astronaut went into orbit the joke in Kentucky was that he was setting his watch by the only visible timepiece on earth — the floral clock.

And this hoary exchange still "What time is it?"

"It's three petunias past four roses."

Joking aside, the clock is one of the world's largest—34 feet in diameter. It is tilted at a 26-degree angle.

Set on a stone cylinder rising from a reflecting pool 56 feet in diameter, it gives the effect of floating in air. Underwater lights and spotlights illuminate the timepiece at night.

The planter alone weighs 100 tons and contains 20,000 to 30,000 individual flowers and plants which are changed twice a year.

The clock is run by electricity but has a mechanical device which can take over in event of power failure.

The clock cost about $59,000, says Combs. Closer to $250,000 says Chandler. Thus, the timepiece may become a campaign issue next spring when Chandler tries again for governor against Combs' candidate.

Whatever the clock's merits and drawbacks, it has attracted widespread attention. The tourist traffic is steady, rain or shine, all through the year.

In traffic counts last summer, an average of 10,000 vehicles passed the timepiece on the one-way circular drive separating the capitol from the capitol annex building.

And almost $3,000 in coins has been collected in 15 months from the "wishing pool." The funds, tossed in the pool by visitors, go to child welfare agencies for playground equipment.

The clock was Gov. Combs' own idea and he defends it whenever the topic comes up. He insists Kentucky has received recognition from the timepiece far out of proportion to money spent.

Democrats Rip Shaffer Ford 16-3 In County Tourney

Italian Club Trips Dems In 'A' Game

The Salem Democrats of the Class A League opened the annual Columbiana County Fastpitch Softball Tournament by blasting Shaffer Ford, also of the 'A' loop, 16-3 in the only tourney encounter played Thursday at Kelley Park.

IN THE ONLY OTHER softball tilt played the Italian Club handed the Democrats a 7-4 setback in a Class A make-up battle. The loss dropped the Democrats out of second place and the Italian Club moved into the runner-up spot. The winners sport an 11-3 mark while the Democrats have an 11-9 record.

Perry Faces Twins In Series Opener

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians are the home team tonight against the Minnesota Twins, a fact that could enhance the Tribe's chances of winning.

Cleveland, which just wound up a road trip during which it dropped six of eight games, has played at a .581 clip at home, winning 25 of 43 games. On the road, however, the Tribe has limped along at a .471 pace, winning 25 of 53.

Camilo Pascual, a 14-game winner, will face Jim Perry (8-7). Pascual racked up a victory in the Twins' three-game sweep over the Indians last week.

The Twins lead the Indians 6-4 in the season series so far. They were particularly brutal to Cleveland in the three-game set at Minnesota, outscoring the Tribe 29 runs to 5.

Niles McKinley Has Opening On Grid Slate

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

A meeting at Youngstown to zone the waters of Berlin Reservoir, in Mahoning and Portage Counties, has resulted in a coordinated enforcement program. Agencies represented at the meeting were the Sheriff's Department of the two counties and the state Divisions of Wildlife and Watercraft.

Various parts of the lake are being zoned for power boating, water skiing, fishing, canoeing, and the like. On all parts of the lake where power boats are permitted, a shoreline zone is being designated where maximum speed allowed will be six miles an hour.

The lake was built about 20 years ago to serve as a draw-down reservoir to augment seasonal low flow of the Mahoning River. It was a project of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The Ohio Division of Wildlife was assigned the management of the fish and wildlife resources of the area.

In recent years its use for boating has increased greatly despite the fact that the basic purpose of the lake is not fully compatible with recreational usage. At its normal pool level the area of Berlin Reservoir is 3,650 acres.

THERE WERE 4.3 fisherman per acre on 36-acre Zeppernick Lake July 4, according to Dan Armbruster, District 3 fish management supervisor, Ohio Division of Wildlife. This heavy angling pressure was discovered during an experimental fish activation study.

During a nine-day check of anglers and angling on this Route 172 lake, 525 persons were checked and they had caught 1,261 fish. The nine-day average fishing pressure was 1.6 anglers per acre per day. This is a high fishing pressure, Armbruster points out.

A TOTAL OF 800 walleyes were netted, tagged and returned to Berlin Reservoir last April, reports Danny Armbruster, District 3 fish management supervisor, Ohio Division of Wildlife. The walleyes ranged from 10 to 26 inches in length, he said.

More than 140 tags have been returned from Berlin already this year, most of which were from 1962. This indicates that Berlin Reservoir anglers are doing a good job of harvesting the big walleye crop.

Riffle's Leads Flying 'B' Loop

Greene Oil In 2nd; Powder Puff Drops

Riffle Plumbing has forged into a two point lead in the Flying 'B' Golf League as the previous pacesetter, Powder Puff, skidded to a fourth place tie, four points behind Riffle's.

Going into this week's action the Powder Puff held a slim margin of a half a point over Riffle's, 76½ to 76. Greene Oil moved into second place with 80 points with the Penn Grill in third, a half point back of the Oil crew.

Tied with the Powder Puff in fourth position are Aldom's Diner and Corso's Wine Shop, all with 78 markers.

Corso's Wine Shop captured low gross honors with a 162 while Ralph Knepper fired a 35 for individual low gross score. The Wine Shop also copped low net tally with a 162-24-138 as Earl Ritchie chalked up a 39-9-30 for individual low net honors. Knepper and Ritchie are members of the Wine aggregation.

The standings for the week are as follows:

Sunday Last Day To Enter Golf Tourney

Officials for the second annual city-wide golf championships urge those planning to participate in the 54-hole tournament, beginning Aug. 4, to turn in their entry blanks by the Sunday deadline.

The blanks can be picked up at any of the three clubs where the tourney will be played, Flying 'B', Robbyn's Knoll and the Salem Golf Club. The fee is $3.

The tournament will be divided into three flights this year, instead of having all the players compete in one field. The first being an 'AA' Flight for those with handicaps from zero to nine; the 'A' Flight for those from 10 to 16, and the 'B' Flight will include those with handicaps 17 and over.

The handicap is being used only to determine what flight participants will be in as the tournament will be played at scratch and handicaps will not be used to figure tournament scores.

Final time for tee offs during the tournament, at both Robbyn's Knoll and Flying 'B' has been changed from 2 to 4 p.m. Pairings and tee off times will be published in the News next Wednesday and Thursday.

A total of 15 trophies, which various concerns in the area will donate, will be given to winners in the three flights. The entire amount received in entry fees will be returned in merchandise.

2-Day Ohio Rally Set For Weekend At Cycle Club

A two-day Northeastern Ohio Rally will be held Saturday and Sunday by the Western Reserve Flying Motorcycle Club at its track located four miles north of Salem off Rts. 14 and 45 on the Middleton Rd.

The program will get underway with an Economy Race at 2 p.m. Saturday followed by a Sportsman Short Track race at 8:30. A dance will be held at 10:30 p.m. in the clubhouse with a twist contest featured. The Stardust Trio will provide the music.

On Sunday a breakfast will be held at 8 a.m. at the clubhouse with awards being given out for the best campsite, best dressed club, largest club in uniform and many others.

The two-day event will finish up with a Scrambles Race at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Major League Stars

Pitching — Warren Spahn, Braves, posted 10th victory of season and No. 319 of career with eight-hitter that beat the New York Mets 6-1, striking out five to move into seventh place on the all-time strikeouts list with 2,274.

Batting — Elston Howard, Yankees, stroked single and double, driving in four runs in 13-3 wallop of Boston.

Player Disqualified In Canadian Tourney

MONTREAL (AP) — Toronto's George Knudson shot a 5-under-par 67 for a 2-stroke first round lead in the $30,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship Thursday, but the big news broke shortly after midnight with the disqualification of South Africa's Gary Player who only last Sunday won the United States PGA title.

Hours after Knudson and the rest of the field had finished the rain-delayed first round, Player disqualified himself for reporting a 75 instead of a 76. He told officials of the Royal Canadian Golf Association that he suddenly realized, long after play had ended, that he had taken a seven on the par-five, 510-yard 10th hole instead of a six.

Jimenez Told To Hit Homers

Finley Says He Pays For HR's, Not Singles

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Manny Jimenez has orders from the owner of the Kansas City Athletics to start swinging for the fences, and the rookie outfielder says, "I try, I try."

Charles O. Finley, sole owner of the Athletics, said Thursday: "I don't pay Jimenez to hit singles."

Jimenez, whose .337 is the second best batting average in the American League, has hit 86 singles but only 10 home runs.

Finley said at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he had bone spurs removed from his feet last week, that he telephoned Hank Bauer, field manager of the Athletics:

"Jimenez is a smart Cuban and he's going for singles and a better average. You get him in our office and get another Cuban to interpret and bang your fist on the desk. We'll see what happens."

Jimenez is actually a Dominican and he got the word in English, but apparently he understood.

Jimenez has what it takes to be a slugger. A 185-pounder who stands 6-1, he has quick wrists and a good eye.

But right now, Bauer remarked, "he is more or less what I would call a defensive hitter. He's slapping at the ball."

But Finley, who likes to have a personal hand in the direction of his ball club, has wearied of the slapping, although Jimenez has slapped in 55 runs — the club's second highest RBI total.

And Bauer says, "I have to agree with Charley to a certain extent on this. If Manny will swing for the home run he'll be a lot more valuable to me. Twenty to twenty-five home runs would be a big help."

Women Hold Best Ball Tourney At Sebring

The team of Donna Ehrhart, Jane Spencer, Jean Kupka and Vee Cooper captured the four-women Best Ball Tournament held at the Sebring Country Club Thursday with a score of 26 for nine holes.

Betty Lamb and Jean Horning tied for low gross with 50's while Jane Spencer fired a 55-21-34 to take low net honors.

Hot Stove Leagues

Five Hot Stove League encounters were played Thursday with one no-hitter and one forfeit being recorded.

Class E
The Salem VFW tallied three runs in the first inning and never was headed as it scored an 8-3 win over E. W. Bliss.

Class F
League-leading Elks had to come from behind in the last two frames to pull a 3-2 win away from the Farmers Bank.

Class H
The Jaycees tallied two runs in the last of the seventh inning when Jim Ciotti rapped a triple and scored on a fielder's choice that was made on a hit by Ron Bezerdi.

Class G
The undefeated Fire Department received a scare from the K of C but managed to score a narrow 9-8 victory to up their record to 14-0.

Yanks Trounce Bosox; Mets Lose Again

Reds Upend Bucs For 9th In Row

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The aura of success seems to be building again at Cincinnati, where the rebounding Reds have reeled off nine consecutive victories and inched toward the top in defense of their National League pennant.

Fred Hutchinson's crew beat Pittsburgh 5-3 Thursday night and climbed within a game of the third-place Pirates.

Milwaukee's Braves also continued at a red-hot pace in the only other NL game scheduled Thursday as Warren Spahn scattered eight hits in a 6-1 triumph over New York that sent the Mets down to their 11th straight setback.

In the only American League action, the first-place New York Yankees walloped Boston 13-3 and the Chicago White Sox belted Washington 7-1.

The Pirates got off to a 1-0 lead against the Reds when Bob Skinner homered in the first inning, but Jerry Lynch came back with a two-run home run in the bottom of the first that sent Cincinnati ahead to stay. Frank Robinson's run-producing single and a two-run homer by Gordie Coleman in the fifth wrapped it up for the Reds and Johnny Klippstein (2-1).

Spahn (10-11), 41, struck out five Mets and moved into seventh place on the alltime list with 2,274, surpassing the 2,271 fanned by Lefty Grove. He also hit his first homer. Hank Aaron hit his 27th homer in support of Spahn, who lost his bid for shutout No. 56 when Jim Hickman singled and Marv Throneberry doubled with two out in the eighth.

GOP Confident About Congressional Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have come up with the theory that if they can hang the blame for a sluggish economy on President Kennedy the voters will take it out on Democratic congressional candidates.

Columbiana Social

Thomas L. Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Haney of 42 N. Cross St., is one of 107 students who achieved the dean's honor list at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., during the past semester.

The Friendly Folks of the Lutheran Church will entertain the Luther League at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eberhardt on Lake Erie, Sunday afternoon. The members are to meet at the church at 12:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Ferrall entertained at a picnic supper on Sunday at their home on the Columbiana-Leetonia road. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Wilt of Miami, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Davis, all of Akron, who now make their home in Florida, were guests in the Ferrall home for several days.

REV. CHARLES F. Fulcomer, minister of the First United Presbyterian Church of Canfield will conduct the Sunday morning services in the local Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Graham and sons attended a corn and wiener roast recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grumble of Rogers.

John Arafuff of Lisbon has bought the Laundromat on S. Main St.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas King and family have returned from a vacation spent on the eastern shore.

Dr. and Mrs. James Garstic and three boys spent a weekend recently in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Guy spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilhelm at their cottage on Lake Erie.

Paul Schultz of Lakeview Drive injured his right eye when hit by a ball in a baseball game Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Forbes have returned from a week's visit with their sons, Dr. * Melvin families in Painesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Beck and family have returned to their home in Lakeland, Fla., after a visit here with relatives.

This theory is based—as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., put it in a National Press Club speech Thursday—on the belief that “the sins of the President will be visited on the Congress.”

For Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, Kennedy’s “sins” include the sending of “far-fetched and ridiculous” proposals to Congress, “indecision and uncertainty” over what to do about the economy and loss of confidence among purchasers and investors.

To this Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., added the indictment on a CBS radio program that Kennedy is failing in his leadership of Congress, particularly with respect to recommending a tax cut Case said would spur the economy.

Goldwater, a spokesman for GOP conservatives, disagreed with Case, who labels himself a liberal, on whether a tax reduction would benefit the economy. Goldwater said it wouldn’t.

But the two Republicans demonstrated a rare political togetherness in blaming Kennedy for most of the country’s domestic ills. In taking their stand, the Republicans apparently are discounting national polls which indicate Kennedy’s popularity remains at a high level.

Their belief is that Kennedy won’t be able to transfer this popularity to Democratic candidates in a year in which he is not running—a point about which the President himself has expressed some doubts.

Goldwater said he didn’t want to make any extravagant claims about Republican prospects. He said he was making only low-level bets that the GOP would pick up the 44 seats it would need to gain to control the House.

The Arizona senator conceded that the Democrats are likely to remain in control of the Senate until the 1966 election. They now have a margin of 64-35 over the Republicans, with one vacancy.

INDICTED IN MURDER

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—The Lorain County grand jury indicted Mrs. Rebecca Louise Young, 37, on a second-degree murder charge Thursday in the shotgun slaying of her husband, Grover Lee Young, 39.

Authorities said Mrs. Young admitted shooting her husband while he was asleep in the Sheffield Twp. home.

IS TIRE CO. PRESIDENT

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—P. W. Perdriau has been elected president of B. F. Goodrich Tire Co., largest division of B. F. Goodrich Co. effective Aug. 1. He is now president of another division of the firm, B. F. Goodrich Industrial Products Co.

HERE'S WHY — “First she cooked our duck and now our pigeon. That’s why we ran away.” Half brothers Zeferino Villareal, 5, and Vincente Yniga, 9, tell sheriff’s police in Los Angeles they ran away from home because their mother cooked their pets. Deputies gave the boys breakfast and returned them home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stout and family returned home Sunday after a two-week vacation in Chapel, W. Va., where they visited her father, Johnson Stout, and Grahn, Ky., where they visited her father, Walt Roar.

Shirley Louise is the name Mr. and Mrs. James Bradley have chosen for their new daughter.

Miss Debbie Watkins of Sebring is spending a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins.

Ohio's 37th Infantry Unit Continues Summer Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 8,000 members of Ohio’s 37th Infantry Division hit the road today for their third consecutive two-week summer field training session at Camp Grayland, Mich.—250 miles north of Toledo.

The Buckeye national guardsmen have been holding their annual active duty training periods at the huge Michigan military reservation since 1960.

Following standard procedure, the entire division, with units in 67 communities around the state, will make the move to camp in military vehicles—Most of them in convoys. No Ohioans are allowed to drive civilian automobiles to camp.

The convoys, which are broken into small sections of 20 to 25 vehicles each, will use three main routes north.

Units from Western Ohio will follow U.S. 127 and then continue up through Michigan on the western side of the state. Central Ohio units of the 37th go through Marysville, Kenton, Findlay and Bowling Green, proceeding up the eastern side of Michigan. Eastern Ohio units will travel on the Ohio Turnpike and then go north on U.S. 27.

All of the units will make rest stops at county fairgrounds in Montpelier, Otkoee or Maumee.

This year’s training will center around the company-sized unit. Last year the emphasis was on the platoon and in 1960 on the squad.

Because of Camp Grayland’s size—more than 136,000 acres—the 37th again will fire every weapon it has at its disposal except the Honest John rocket. The rocket battalion, however, will fire that weapon later in the summer.

The first week’s activities will center around firing weapons with live ammunition. During the second week, infantrymen and tanks will combine for the company-sized maneuvers. Here, however, blank ammunition will be used for safety reasons.

The 37th Division, which recently celebrated its 45th anniversary, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Loren G. Windom, Ohio’s adjutant general.

4-H Selection Days To Begin Monday

Hundreds of boys and girls in Columbiana County 4-H clubs are working on projects to be judged at district “selection days” beginning Monday.

Junior and senior members will compete separately in three categories—foods, clothing and miscellaneous.

First and second place winners from the three districts will advance to County Selection Day Friday, Aug. 10, at First Methodist Church, Lisbon.

Awards will be presented to first and second place winners at the county contest, and first place winners will be eligible to compete at the state fair.

Mrs. Betty Herron of RD 2, Salem, acting 4-H agent, said the southern district contest will be Monday at Highlandtown School western district, Wednesday at United High School; and north-east district, Monday, Aug. 6, at Crestview High School.

The schedule will be the same in each district: 9:30 a.m., registration; 12:30 p.m., judging; 7:30 p.m. open house, and 8:15 p.m. style show.

Nearly two of every three Americans, or 121 million persons, owned about $635 billion of legal reserve life insurance at the end of 1961, an increase of 8 per cent from 1960, according to the 1962 Britannica Book of the Year.

Auto Rips Up 90 Feet of Guardrail

No one was injured but considerable property damage resulted from a one-car accident on Rt. 170, about five miles south of Negley, at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Clarence W. George, 49, of Negley, told the State Highway Patrol that he took his eyes off the road momentarily to look for an appointment book and the car he was driving drifted off the right side of the highway into a guardrail. The Patrol reported that 90 feet of guardrail and 11 posts were torn out. The 1957-model car was damaged extensively.

Maine’s Aroostook County, famous for its potatoes, also contains the greatest known deposit of manganese on the North American continent.
